November 6, 2009

LATIN III HONORS
PROJECT 1: CURSUS HONORUM

Directions

The central aim of any self-respecting Roman man was attainment of public recognition and glory, and no greater glory was to be found than in public service. And you thought we were done with politics! Your project will focus on creating a game following the steps followed in a political career in Republican Rome.

Procedure

- You will work in groups: three of three, one of four.
- You will research the cursus honorum.
- You will produce a board game, complete with pieces, and box art for this game.

Due Date: Dies Lunae, prid. Kal. Dec. MMDCCLXXVII a.u.c.

Scoring

This project is worth 100 points as a part of your homework grade. You will be graded on

- Completion on time
- Quality and extent of research
- Creativity in construction of your game
- Creativity in your box art
- Quality and ease of game play