

Unit 3 Introduction
Beginning with the End in Mind: Goals, Objectives, and Learning Tasks

Welcome to unit 3. In unit 2 you looked at the learning environments and important considerations to make when planning instruction for the whole child. In this unit you will start honing in on your academic goals. What better place to start than the end?! By focusing first on your intended destination, you are better able to pave sound and accessible pathways for your students. Before you start talking about building pathways toward the goal, first identify the learning goals or objectives and how you can make these goals accessible to English learners.
