

Output: Many Paths to the Destination

Welcome to unit 8! This last unit is all about application and reflection. You are going to begin pulling together the concepts that you have been working on since Unit 1 and reflect upon some of these topics in relation to yourself as a learner. Your learning is 100% active in this unit, so everything will count toward the assignment. You have learned the importance of standards based instruction for ELLs. You have also seen the importance of creating learning opportunities that are accessible yet challenging for each student based on language and content readiness as well learning profiles and interests. Some students will need to build background knowledge based on your content. All students need to be challenged to think critically and creatively. So, make it happen!
