The screenshot shows the Quia website homepage. At the top, there's a blue header with the Quia logo and the text "Create your own...". Below this, the main content area is divided into two columns. The left column is titled "Welcome to Quia" and contains a login form with fields for "Username" and "Password", a "Log in" button, and links for "Forgot username?", "Forgot password?", "Can't log in?", and "Create account". The right column is titled "New to Quia Web?" and contains a link "What does Quia Web offer? Tools for any subject or grade", two sub-links "Why teachers choose Quia" and "How to get started", and two buttons "Subscribe now" and "Free 30-day trial". Below the login form, there's a green section titled "Create" with the text "activities, quizzes, calendars, surveys ..." and a "View" section with "grades, quiz results, activity results ...". To the right of these sections, there's a yellow section titled "Instructor" with a "Go" button and a "Click to enter" link. A red callout box with white text is overlaid on the login form, pointing to the "Log in" button. The callout text reads: "Type in your QUIA Username & Password CLICK 'Log in'". At the bottom of the page, there's a section titled "Our users say:" with a quote from Ty Newton, a middle school science teacher, and a "See more..." link. To the right of this, there's a section titled "Shared activities" with a "Go" button and a list of subjects: Art, Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, English, French, Geography, German, History, Italian, Japanese, Latin, Mathematics, Medicine, Music, Science, Spanish, and "And more...".

“ I am a middle school science teacher, and I use Quia on a daily basis in my classroom. I don't use much software, just online services. This is the only one I like well enough to pay for. I use the activities to add extra 'fun' review. I use the quizzes for assessment, and I use the surveys to gather information about how to make my class better. I believe it always increases learning! ”

“ Five years ago I came across Quia and fell in love so to speak. I learned more about it and presented some of my work at a local conference. Since then, I have been a believer that students can really have fun as they learn. My students play the numerous Quia games and activities I create and do not even know they are studying. ”
